

Texas Residency

Texas residency statutes and The Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board rules requires all public institutions to follow and enforce residency requirements at the time of admission on all students.

Prior to registration, an applicant must provide documentation which proves residence in Texas twelve (12) months, even if one has lived in Texas all their life. Listing a Dallas address on admissions application does not automatically qualify you as a Texas Resident or claiming that you've lived here all your life. Documentation is required.
